1. On 14 December 1953, the Panzer Kaserne in Bad Freienwalde quartered about 1,200 men wearing red-bordered black epaulets with artillery and tank insignia. After 10 December, about eight 100-mm AT guns and three armored personnel carriers were in the wooden sheds which hitherto stored trucks and 57-mm AT guns. On 12 December, soldiers trained at two other 100-mm AT guns. At about 8 p.m. on 9 December, about 15 trucks towing about ten 100-mm AT guns passed through Lannenberg toward Bad Freienwalde.

Training activities were intensified from 5 to 14 December. Soldiers were daily observed drilling individually and by squads, and receiving marksmanship training, in the barracks yard or engaged in combat training and record practices in the terrain. Other motor-vehicle storage sheds were still under construction. Five tank trucks were still stored in the barracks area.
